Wainwright Misses Death by Narrow Margin on Bataan

...day's installment of General Wainwright's intimate account of the fall of the Philippines and the tragic events leading up to equally tragic capture, the Hero of Bataan and Corregidor ...ails of his close calls on Bataan, and leads up to the mysterious phone call from General MacArthur which was sharply to ... his military role in the Philippines.

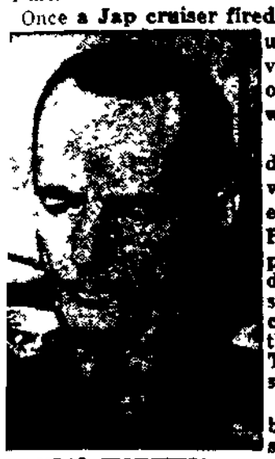
INSTALLMENT NO. 10

...r my own safety during the Bataan campaign, the ...main danger came from having to travel about so ...h visiting what was now—in February, 1942—a ... running across the peninsula from Gen. George M. ...ers's left flank to the China Sea and then down the ...shire and around to Mariveles.

There were a few close calls, shared by my aides, ...nny Pugh and Tom Dooley, my orderly, Sgt. Carroll, Frank Hewlett, the correspondent, who often was ...h me.

Once a Jap cruiser fired from extreme range at sea upon a coastal battery I was visiting, and which I had ordered to open fire on the warship.



GENERAL WAINWRIGHT

But a closer scrape came during the time I was up with the troops trying to extricate the trapped First Philippine division. I was personally commanding the detachments at the time, and standing partly under the cover afforded by a bank on the right side of the road. The road was dug into the side of a high hill.

Sgt. Carroll was right behind me. Either he saw some Japs on the hill above us or sensed they were there. ...yway, I was in the midst of an order to a junior of...ed when I felt Sgt. Carroll grab two fistfuls of the ...t of my pants and he yanked me down to my ...unches while he shouted in his loudest Texas twang: "Damn it, General, get down or you'll get your damn ...ad shot off!"

Two Killed Nearby

I had two close calls from strafing planes. The first ...e came one day while I still had the Packard I was ...ven when I commanded the old Philippine division. ... this time it was on its last legs, victim of a number of ...llisions with trucks, a few sideswipes by tanks, and the ...ts of Philippine roads.

It had been a target for almost everything except ...ghtning, on the day something akin to lightning hit it. ...e were driving along—Hewlett and I, with Sgt Carroll ...eping his eye peeled looking for planes—when sud...nly Carroll let out a Texas yell. The Filipino driver ...ought the car to a shrieking stop in the middle of the ...ad and we threw open the doors.

A Zero fighter was coming straight down the ...ad at us, very low and tremendously fast.

Find Safety In Ditches

There were two little ditches at the side of the road ...he driver hit the dirt on the opposite side of the road. ...arroll dived into one of the ditches. Hewlett took a ...n dive into the other ditch and I went right in there ... his back as the Zero's wing guns opened up.

The stream of bullets raced up the road at perhaps ...0 m.p.h. and bit right through the top of the Packard.

I got up off Hewlett's back feeling foolish. I hate to ...e a groundhog.

I used a jeep after that. Pugh, Dooley, Hewlett and ...were bumping along in it one day when another Zero ...alled us from behind.

But this time there were no ditches to hit, no sense ...en to throw ourselves on the ground—which makes a ...oldier feel bad and, in a situation like this, affords him ...o more protection than if he just stands and watches.

We had time only to get out of the jeep and reach ...e side of the narrow road. The bullets hammered down ...e road and somehow missed the jeep, but cut a furrow ...ithin 10 feet of where we stood.

Few Rays Of Hope

It was a bad feeling. But Bataan was a hopeless ...ell where everything was bad except the will to live, ...e memories of home (as tortuous as they sometimes ...ould be) and the ever-dimming hope that the great ...ountry we represented would somehow find a way to ...elp us.

About mid-way in the fight to push back into the ...ater the Japs who were attacking my rear flank, the ...nemy began to hit us on the main line to the north.

One strong Jap prong came down a trail leading ...nto the center of the Eleventh division and penetrated

More and more groups are getting under the wire with indorsements of Marion's Jobs and Progress plan, as Tuesday, Nov. 6, the day on which the citizenry decide whether the city goes forward or in reverse, draws near.

ATOMIC BOMB HEARINGS MAY BE REOPENED

Congress Group Heeds Criticism of Brief Testimony; Taxes Under Study.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 16—Death and taxes are the big subjects in congress today.

As for death:

The house military committee met to decide whether to reopen its hearings on atomic energy An outcry had been raised because the group heard only four witnesses on the atomic energy bill.

Congress is seeking to use atomic power for better life—instead of death to the world. The question is "How?"

As for taxes:

A leading Republican senator, Robert Taft of Ohio, gave unexpected support of the treasury's tax-cutting plan This plan differs from the tax bill passed by the house

The senate finance committee is in the second day of a three-day tax hearing. Today it hears from the CIO which already has criticized the house bill as helping big corporations too much and wage-earners not enough.

Oratory Plentiful

These matters were argued in committee rooms, where the real work of congress is done The senate didn't meet today. The house did—with much oratory scheduled on two subjects.

1 Palestine as a homeland for European Jews.

2. A bill to grant $600,000,000 of federal cash for a 10-year federal-state program of building airports The senate has passed a different version of the airport bill.

On taxes, Secretary of the Treasury Fred M Vinson told the senate committee yesterday the excess-profits tax on corporations should be abolished Jan. 1. Today, Taft told a reporter he agreed with Vinson.

Vinson also advocated repeal of the so-called "normal tax" (it used to be the "victory tax"). Taft agreed.

Also, in congress today, were

Humbled Japs Head Back on Road To Peace

Leaders Outdo Each Other in Cooperation; Common People Showing Life.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 16—New Japan, poverty stricken, and spiritually crushed, officially without vestige of an armed force for the first time in history and without standing among nations, began the long road back to acceptance in the society of the world today.

Politicians and militarists whose lives had been dedicated to the growth of the stolen empire struggled to revise the constitution for a peaceful Japan in which the government would serve rather than dominate the people, and to out-do each other in cooperation with the conquering occupation forces.

Request Mass Suicide

of Japan, then jubilantly demonstrated before General MacArthur's headquarters.

Their banners asked MacArthur to tell the government to give them more bread.

Evidence of what General MacArthur had in mind yesterday, when in his broadcast announcing completion of Japanese demobilization he referred to the "humiliation and finality of this surrender", was developed in stories of self-abasement of military men.

American artillery officers were shown an undamaged coastal gun by a bowing Japanese officer. "This was one of our best weapons, but we never fired it," he asserted.

Couldn't Use Weapons

Other Americans viewed the world's largest anti-aircraft gun and were told "we couldn't get the hang of the mass fire control principle." A Japanese general displayed Japan's newest and largest tank and admitted it never was used because the Japanese couldn't get bugs out of it.

American naval authorities took over two of the world's largest submarines — 5,700-ton undersea monsters with 50,000-mile cruising range.

"We never could sink anything with them," explained the Japanese officer in charge

One of the world's great migrations was underway, almost unnoticed as a million and a half Koreans in Japan sought to get back home

The Koreans, 250,000 of whom were forced laborers brought to Japan to work, crowded in filth and squalor, without adequate food, shelter or clothing, into the northern Kyushu port of Hakata and the southern Honshu port of Senzaki seeking transportation home

Living in stables, on open docks and even in unused sewer pipes, the Koreans waited transportation home on the boats which were bringing Japanese troops back from Korea.

Navy Mother Sees Fleet Return—Dies

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 16—An elderly mother, one of whose two Navy sons is missing in action, paid with her life yesterday because she thought that waving a welcome to units of the Third Fleet was the "least I could do."

Mrs Elizabeth Arnold Heggie, 60, of Oakland, Calif, had been warned by her doctor that her heart might not stand any unusual exertion, but she told friends she was going to be on hand when the fleet came in

"It's the least I can do," she said.

Bystanders saw her trudge slowly up San Francisco's Telegraph hill, a favorite vantage point for watchers. Suddenly she swayed and fell. She was dead when an ambulance brought her to the harbor emergency hospital.

Ninety-five per cent of the tents used to shelter troops on the island were blown down, hospitals were wrecked and hospitals damaged. These photos show what is left of the large postoffice for U. Eisenhower Reports Reds Dominate Berlin Offices

Declares Fair Election Would Not Support Communists, However; Summarizes Political Set-Up.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 16 — General Eisenhower said today informal reports indicate a fair and impartially supervised election in Berlin would not support the present Communist party dominance" of the city government.

The general put into his second monthly report on military government in the American zone of occupation a critique on politics in Germany — including those in the Russian zone.

Eisenhower declared one of the political device fostered by the communists in Berlin—a bloc of parties—would have no welcome in the American zone

Summary of Situation

Here is what he had to say about Berlin, where the Allied control authority has its headquarters and where the four Allied powers have four zones

"Four organized parties exist there They were granted permission by the Soviet military authorities to organize and so were functioning when United States forces occupied the U. S sector of Berlin The four parties are the Communist party, the Social Democratic party, the Christian-Democratic union, and the Liberal Democratic party

"The first two are well organized, active and have a basis of former members on which to build The latter two groups are new parties, though drawing support from middle class, conservative bourgeois elements formerly associated with the Centrum, the German Democratic party, and the German People's party. They are less well organized and less a ...ive than the Marxist parties. This is especially true of the Liberal Democratic party.

Not Enough Support

"The Communist party of Germany holds a majority of the strategic posts in the Berlin magistrat and in the administrations of the Berlin municipalities. Informed reports indicate that a fair and impartially supervised election in Berlin would not support the present Communist party dominance of the city government. The present political set-up in Berlin is the result of the Soviet military authorities' appointment of persons to the various offices. The Soviet authorities have also permitted the formation of the anti-Fascist bloc of parties.

sent dissatisfaction, especially on the part of the two conservative parties The desire of a political bloc will not be encouraged in the U S zone, as it runs counter to traditional American concept of political activity and vigorous political life in a democratic sense."

All four Berlin parties publish newspapers, said Eisenhower, adding

"The newspapers of each party are allocated sufficient newsprint by the Soviet authorities to print 100,000 copies each, except that the Communist paper is permitted to print 200,000 All papers are subject to Soviet censorship."

TAFT BACKS UP VINSON'S PLAN

Ohio Senator Prefers Treasury Tax Cut Program to House Proposal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 — The treasury got unexpected support today from Senator Taft (R-Ohio) for its preferred tax cutting plan

Taft told a reporter before the senate finance committee began its second day of hearing he likes the way Secretary Fred M Vinson wants to go about easing the drain on citizens' pocketbooks

The house cut $5,250,000,000 off prospective 1946 tax bills Vinson's reductions added up to $5,175,000,000

Taft said he thought Vinson had worked out a pretty good program. The treasury secretary wants the excess profits tax ended next January 1. The house voted to repeal it, but keep it until Jan. 1, 1947.

Vinson wanted the personal income tax on individuals repealed. The house did [illegible] another way that seemed to [illegible] those with larger incomes [illegible].

"I'm in favor of getting rid of the excess [illegible] and not just handing [illegible] reductions to certain [illegible]," Taft asserted. He means, [illegible], the elimination of the 400 Russian and Polish inmates of the institution.

By The Associated Press

The nation's labor disputes, numbering at least 135, kept some 585,000 workers from their jobs today

In Washington, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach announced the collapse of the conference to settle the critical soft coal strike

In New York City, where a 16-day strike of ALF Longshoremen has virtually paralyzed shipping in the world's biggest harbor, there was reported violence within the union ranks and by CIO unionists, as extra police were ordered to the waterfront

On the bright side was the resumption of service to some 1,000,000 New England bus and trolley riders as buses, under control of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, began rolling after a three-day strike of 1,800 eastern Massachusetts street railway employes.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I CAUGHT back a quick, dismayed protest to my father's mandate.

I had washed—nay longed—for Georges' banishment from the Lansfield, where he almost had caused murderous tragedy because of his pursuit of Mary But I had not counted upon being the person who should bring him the news of his removal, and I found myself shrinking from the order!

Useless to ask myself whether or not my reluctance had its roots in the desire of hurting Glamorous Georges" as Dicky calls him, insisting that all women have a soft spot in their hearts for the engaging fugitive [illegible] time, now yet oppo[illegible] anything but strict obedience. I raised my eyes to meet my father's, as I squared my shoulders in unconscious anticipation of a burden to be laid upon them.

Very well, Father," I said quietly "I am ready, except—all I have time for a half-minute with Katharine before I go.

"Of course," he said. "And now, here is what I wish you to say to Georges—alone, of course, as this is going to be unpleasant news to him and he will not want others to observe his reaction.

"Therefore, he went on, "on your own discretion, after you reach the apartment but keeping in your mind the need for haste you will ask to see Georges alone saying you have an important message to him from me.

I could not help remembering that I had given Georges that same message but a short time before, only then it had been camouflaging an answer from Mary to his plea to see her. I wondered too if my sanity might not let him hope that I was again covering up my real message.

But I had no more time for remembrance or conjecture than I for dismay, for my father was speaking again, and I gave him earnest attention.

When you get him alone," he said "do not mince matters. Tell him that I insist on his coming back with you to this apartment as soon as he can get his things together. Remind him, from me, that I told him some time ago to keep all his belongings in readiness so that he could get ready to leave in five minutes. Give him another five minutes to say farewell to the Verlizens, but be back here within fifteen minutes of the time you enter the Verlizen apartment."

Question Answered

He paused, and I almost put a question, but he answered it before I could get it out.

"Olga knows that I am sending for him immediately," he said "In fact, it was on account of news she had for me, which I have no time to discuss now, that I am sending for Georges. I do not know whether she has had an opportunity to tell Philip or Olina that he is going. She probably will make one as soon as you get there."

I found my heartstrings twanging with sympathy for Olga, in her painful task of giving her daughter the news which I was afraid Olina would find heartbreaking, even though she could not have helped guessing Georges' infatuation for Mary.

But I knew how deeply the proud young princess loved the engaging royal rascal to whom she formerly had been betrothed, and dreaded infinitely the moment when I must take the fugitive king away with me.

"And now," my father said briskly, "if you will take your half-minute with Katharine, and then go on up to the Verlizen apartment, I will get on the telephone and summon Gus."

He turned to the telephone, and I, to Jack's wife, who was my "right hand" for so many years.

"It's only this, Katharine," I said "I want to tell you where Dicky's socks and other things are if Jack should need them. And I know you'll carry on here until I get back, although I'm sure you won't have anything special to do."

Marion and Morrow Co. Ration Boards Merged

Marion area war price and rationing board is the new name given the office formerly known as Marion county war price and rationing board, according to information received from E E. Holliday, manager of the local office.

This change was brought about by the merging yesterday of Morrow county and Marion county boards All operations of the Morrow county board, with exception of issuing tires, will be operated from this office The Morrow county tire panel will continue to function, receiving and approving tire applications in that county Residents may mail their applications to box 127, Mt Gilead.

The purpose of the consolidation was to curtail expenses as the heavy ration issuance has lessened

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Ways To Prevent a Cold

A cold is an acute infection of the nose which may or may not involve the throat There is blocking of the nose increased mucus formation, some pain or discomfort and, in certain instances, fever

According to Doctor Arthur W Proetz of St Louis, these symptoms may be brought about by a number of different causes because the nose is exposed to all sorts of influences The nose reacts to nervous and glandular disturances, to nutritional disorders, and to other toxic or poisonous substances which may get into the circulation.

From the outside, the nose is exposed to many kinds of atmosphere to great changes in temperature and moisture in the air Dust, pollens, and other materials are deposited on the lining membrane of the nose

Before the actual symptoms of a cold develop, the lining membrane of the nose may be attacked by a virus that is an organism so small that it can pass through a porcelain filter, or there may be changes in the circulation of the lining membrane of the nose which permit infection with germs to follow. It is the action of the bacteria or germs that causes the discomfort, discharge and swelling of tissues

In the prevention of colds, Doctor Proetz believes it is important that certain things be done to maintain the health of the nasal passageways The airways through the nose must be free and fairly equal in size There should be no constriction and, if there is an overgrowth of bone called a spur, in the nose, this must be removed When a part of the nose is blocked it is really "out of service"

The nasal passages should drain freely. The nasal lining membrane should be properly nourished, and the nerves which control the blood vessels in the nose should not be over-sensitive and over-active Treatment of allergy or oversensitiveness may be needed to produce this result

The cells in the nasal lining membrane are equipped with tiny hair-like structures called cilia If these cilia are working properly and there is a proper protecting coat of mucus over the membrane, colds are much less likely to occur Thus, it would seem important in the prevention of colds in persons who have them frequently that, among other things steps be taken to put the nose in proper condition

(Dr Bundesen will answer letters containing medical questions only through his column.)

TREASURER REPORTS ON TAX COLLECTION

Payments on 1944 Charge Total $870,385.68.

County Treasurer Marion E. Hinklin announced today that in the two real estate tax collection periods this year current real estate taxes in the amount of $870,385.68 had been paid.

The total amount collectible, (the tax charge for 1944) was $887,241.08. The amount collected was more than 98 per cent of the total due, Treasurer Hinklin said.

In addition to the collection of current taxes Mr. Hinklin reported delinquent taxes in the amount of $21,457.29 had been paid on a total delinquency of $69,170.64.

Mr. Hinklin said that for the last four years the collection of current taxes averaged better than 98 per cent.

He also reported that in the last four years real estate delinquencies had been collected in the amount of $146,488.47. This figure, plus the collection of more than $60,000 in delinquent special assessments and personal property tax, has brought the four-year delinquent collection above $200,000.

Mr. Hinklin said that delinquencies are at the lowest point in the last 25 years. He estimated that approximately half the remaining delinquencies are uncollectable without legal action.

Adm. Halsey on Radio Nets Twice Tonight

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Pigeons that whistle in flight will give a demonstration in a special NBC broadcast at noon Saturday. They are the property of James P. Howe, retired AP foreign and war correspondent and now a California rancher.

However, the pigeons themselves actually do not do the whistling. Tiny flutes or panpipes which are attached to their tail feathers produce the varying tones described as "sweet, eerie music" as air is forced through them by the birds in flight.

Howe said he brought several hundred of them home with him when he returned from Pekin, China.

Admiral William F. Halsey, returned to San Francisco with the Third fleet, is scheduled for two broadcasts tonight. At 10 he is listed to join in the Bob Hope show on NBC when the program originates from the U.S.S. South Dakota. At 12 mid he is to be heard again as MBS carries his talk from a reception in his honor.

Also coming up tonight: NBC 7:30 Barry Fitzgerald as "His Honor, The Barber," story of a small town barber who also dispenses justice. Replacement for the Dick Haymes show, moved to CBS.

Talks tonight (Tuesday): MBS 9:30 American forum "Should We Internationalize the Atomic Bomb?" ABC 10 Archbishop R. J. Cushing of Boston in mission Sunday talk; CBS 10:30 Rep. John Taber on "Bottlenecks in Discharging Servicemen."

Says Millions of People Only Half Alive

A man now in Los Angeles, but formerly a world-renowned traveler and geographer, honored by leading geographical societies, reveals the story of a remarkable method that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

This man tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields.

He claims that millions of people are only half alive, that the drive which gives vitality and strength to their efforts, and which makes life a joy and a triumph, is too often missing. He offers to send his amazing 9,000 word treatise—which reveals many startling results—to readers of this paper free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. T-677, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly because this offer may be withdrawn at any time.—Adv.

Java's Boisterous Night Life Worse Than Its Daytime War

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

BATAVIA, JAVA—Nightclubbing in riot-torn Java is like spending a noisy evening in the lone star saloon back in golddust days of the American wild west.

You can expect anything from brass knuckles to Mickey Finns, and if your only souvenir is a hangover you can figure you came out ahead.

Batavia's nightclub proprietors haven't got around yet to using canal water in their drinks. The most popular concoctions are a skull-cracking brandy that appears to have been distilled from Japanese pine-needle gasoline, and a dubious cocktail mixer with equal parts of cherry flavoring, saccharine and some high-voltage ingredient that smells like mothballs soaked in vinegar and cocoanut juice.

Worse Than War

When these two brews are indiscriminately mixed in the stomachs of Java's cosmopolitan nightclub set, brawls ensue which make this island's daytime struggles for independence from Dutch rule look like an ordinary lodge election.

Hal Boyle

There is only one war in the daytime — that's more or less between the natives and the Dutch. But at night! You can choose from half a dozen wars among as many nationalists. The wise man plays the role of bystander—but you have to be fast on your feet.

At present only two real nightclubs are open. The third, which catered largely to Japanese soldiers off duty, had to turn itself into a "day club" to save its remaining fixtures from demolition.

The remaining nightclubs are at Barbary coast level in quality and Stork club level in price. They feature dim, colored lights, tinpan orchestras and both white and Eurasian "common" girls hired for their ability to drink customers under the table.

Their clientele consists of former Dutch internees, Eurasians, British soldiers and sailors and American merchant seamen, a few local tired businessmen and wealthy natives and a number of castaway German submarine crewmen. It is a highly explosive mixture.

One Japanese soldier made the mistake of trying to attend a nightclub with a native girl. Although he was wearing civilian clothes his identity was discovered and the mob descended upon him without any reference to his rights under the Potsdam Declaration. He was beaten to the consistency of amber jelly, then picked up spread-eagle and tossed out into the night in the general direction of Tokyo.

Three blond, tough-looking German submariners at the other nightclub on the same embattled evening got off more easily. They were in shirtsleeves at the bar, drinking alone. When a group of American and English sailors learned they were Nazis they muscled over and invited them to leave. The Germans sneered and started to make an issue of the matter, but after a quick glance at the opposition, Hans, Fritz and Hermann tossed down their drinks and edged out the back door.

With no one else to fight, the American and British exchanged congratulations, and a few drinks later started throwing fists among themselves.

"It's a quiet evening," said the Russian lady bartender who refereed these encounters to the extent of summoning medical aid for the victims. Because of her nationality she escaped internment during the war, but got slapped around a few times by the Japanese. She hates the Germans, too, however, and acts as a "finger lady" whenever a Japanese or German enters.

"Throw them out," she whispers, and rubs her fat, diamonded fingers gleefully when the Japanese or German goes sailing out to land on his ear on the curbstone. First of course, she takes the precaution of collecting for his drinks.

"I could stand Germans—but never Japs—not those monkey men," she says. "They sound like pigs when they eat. They eat [illegible] like this—("She purses her [illegible] lips and makes a noise like a [illegible] wading across a sticky pas[illegible]. Over in the corner a na[illegible] piano player tickles out the St. Louis Blues—he gets $15 a m[illegible]—and everybody sits back and waits for the next fight.

NDENBURG SHOWS AIN IN G.O.P. FAVOR

By the Associated Press

Oct. 16—The Re- ...al publication of ... party, yesterday, ...urvey showed Sen Arthur H Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, had enjoyed the greatest gain in party prestige in the past two years while the 1944 presidential standard bearer, Gov Thomas E. Dewey of New York, showed the greatest loss in popularity

Vandenberg's stand on foreign policy increased his popularity by 40 per cent over a similar survey, conducted in 1943, the magazine said. Dewey, despite his loss, still stood among the top five of the favorites

Other possibilities who stood high were John W Bricker, 1944 vice presidential candidate and former Ohio governor, Navy Capt Harold E. Stassen, at one time Minnesota governor, Sen Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Gov. Earl Warren of California

Former President Herbert Hoover was also mentioned as a contender, as were Dewey, Sen Robert A Taft of Ohio, Eric Johnston new movie czar, Alfred M Landon, 1936 candidate Sen Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Gov Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, Justice Harold H. Burton of Ohio, and Gov. Dwight Green of Illinois

The publication said Bricker's position on domestic issues was the most popular, except in the east where Stassen was favored. Dewey ranked third on domestic issues, fourth on foreign policy, while Hoover stood fourth domestically and third on foreign policy

The poll was based on replies from 4,249 county chairmen, state committeemen, and other local Republicans throughout the nation

What Endocreme can do to bless you with a younger looking face

Think of the added beauty a more youthful face and throat can give! Then harken to this: Scientific research has proved that ENDOCREME can, for most women, contribute to this desirable result in a way formerly thought impossible. Many thousands are now finding that ENDOCREME actually helps to improve the skin itself, not just its transient, superficial "look." This is because ENDOCREME, alone, possesses ACTIVOL. This ACTIVOL is a scientific replacement for woman's own natural skin-vitalizing substance. Absorbed by the skin, it helps to restore the normal growth of cells and tissues. It thus aids the skin to become fresher, smoother, more alluringly "alive." What bigger value can any woman young or old ask for her cosmetic dollars? The great majority get big improvement in only 30 days.

AFL COUNCIL SEEKS STRIKE CONTROL PLAN

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 16 — The American Federation of Labor's executive council is working on a plan which it hopes will reduce strikes to a minimum

William Green, AFL president, said the council during its 10-day quarterly conference here, will inaugurate a move "aimed at establishing cooperation between industry and labor so that strikes may be reduced to a minimum." He did not elaborate.

The council, at its opening session yesterday, voiced strong opposition to any attempts to revive the National War Labor board, contending its continuance would result in more strikes.

"Much of the present industrial strife has been caused by the government's attempt to regulate the nation's economic life as though the war emergency were to continue indefinitely," the council declared in a prepared statement. Continuation of the WLB will inevitably bring about an increase in strikes"

Council members agreed the government cannot enforce strict wage controls "against the tide of natural economic forces," and called on President Truman to adopt a new course."

Government controls should be dropped promptly," the council said, "and the WLB should be permitted to pass out of existence Meanwhile, wage rates should be permitted to rise to their proper level through the free exercise of collective bargaining, while every encouragement should be given to business to keep prices down through the operation of normal competition."

Later, Green told reporters the council does not favor the lifting of price and rent controls "until we return to normal production."

Speaking of current strikes, Green declared the country is "paying now for the mistake congress made in passing the Smith-Connally bill."

HEARSE CARRYING LAVAL'S BODY AT CEMETERY. Body of Pierre Laval, the French traitor who was shot by a firing squad, rests in this black hearse which has reached the Thiais cemetery in Paris where Laval was buried beside other collaborationists.

Laval in Last-Minute Message Calls Death Veritable Murder

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Shortly before his abortive suicide attempt and his execution, Pierre Laval wrote a note, his attorneys said, in which he declared:

"To save French soldiers from the dishonor of carrying this (the execution) out, I prefer to die as a Roman—by taking poison."

Laval wrote that he was the victim of "a veritable murder" and said that he had kept the poison for "a very long time." The message was addressed "to my counsel to inform them, and to my executioners to answer them."

Laval's' first words when doctors revived him from the poisoning were:

"I didn't want to die under French bullets."

Thinks of Family

To one of his lawyers, Jacques Baraduc who accompanied him to the execution stake, Laval whispered:

"Tell my wife and daughter my last thoughts were of them."

Mrs. Laval had tried futilely to save his life. Laval's daughter, Josee, is the Countess Rene de Chambrun. De Chambrun, who claims U. S. citizenship as a descendant of Lafayette, and the countess were questioned by the French but released on Sept. 10, 1946.

The American-educated countess was reported to have collapsed at her Paris home when informed of her father's execution.

Mrs. Laval, however, was reported dry-eyed. Upon hearing of her husband's words. She was reported to have said:

"What a beautiful way to die."

Plan Further Fight

Laval's attorneys, Albert Naud and Baraduc, declared jointly after the execution:

"We feel our duty is not finished. It has just begun. We will continue to fight until the trial is reviewed."

The lawyers estimated it might take "up to three years" to secure a review and asserted they had "no personal material interest" in the case.

Laval's wealth was confiscated by the state.

Baraduc supplied additional information about Laval's suicide attempt and his execution.

The lawyer said Laval regained consciousness at 10 a. m. after his attempted suicide.

"A prison chaplain who had been waiting stepped up and began the formula for absolution, telling him to ask forgiveness of God for all his errors," Baraduc said.

"Laval answered:

"'I ask forgiveness of God for all my errors and I also ask him to forgive those of the others. Their need of forgiveness is greater than mine.'

"Then he asked for and was given the final rites. Doctors and their aids continued to work on him. He tried to help them," the lawyer continued.

"At 11:30, they said they thought he could make it — that it was a miracle how he recovered. They wanted to dress him but he said, 'No, I have the strength. I'll dress myself.'

Famous White Tie

"He dressed himself shakily on his bed, spending most of the time on his famous white tie which he knotted carefully. But before he left, he suddenly reached for a red, white and blue scarf he had taken to prison and carefully wrapped it around his neck, practically covering his tie — his emblem—with the French national colors.

"He refused to be helped going out. Two of us got into the police wagon with him, the prison chaplain and two mobile guards.

"We drove to the empty lot behind the prison. The prison windows were crowded with inmates shouting at the guards. They were yelling 'murderers.'

"As we got out of the police wagon, they offered to carry him in a chair. Laval waved them aside saying:

"'I want to go upright to the execution stake.'

"He also refused to be helped by two guards.

"Albert Naud (another attorney) and I held his arms and walked with him to the stake, but he did not lean on us. He turned to us and whispered, 'Tell my wife and daughter my last thoughts were of them.'

Prisoners Restive

By the time we reached the stake the cries from the prison were shaking the air. They were shouting:

"'It's murder,' 'murderers.'

"The magistrates who were supposed to be there were keeping out of sight. Laval noticed it and asked loudly:

"'Where are my judges?'

"The judges then stepped forward and Laval addressed them:

"'Magistrates, gentlemen, I simply want to tell you I'm sorry for you for having carried out such a piece of work.'

"Then he turned to the firing squad and said:

"'I regret for you that you are made the innocent accomplices of a judicial crime. I die because I loved my country too well.'

"He then asked to give the firing order to the execution squad but this was refused. He faced the soldiers and cried 'Vive la France' just before they fired.

"Immediately after the volley, somebody filled the air with a great shout from the prison:

"'The republic has murdered him.'"

Wife Charges Laval Railroaded

By International News Service

PARIS, Oct. 16—Madame Laval charged flatly tonight that her husband was railroaded to his death on "orders from above."

Admitting two American correspondents to her apartment, she gave her fearless personal reaction to her husband's execution.

"Why cry?" she asked. "One cries over distractions and petty disappointments. This matter is so big that one would need tears of blood."

"If there had been a parliament, this could not have been done," she asserted, adding: "There were orders from above to do this before the elections."

Laval's family has been bitterly anti-de Gaule, accusing the provisional president of France with hurrying the trial and execution to appease elements dissatisfied with other policies of the government.

Sighing heavily, she said: "In the last few hours he wrote Josie (Laval's daughter). In fact, he wrote all night last night, sending us touching messages."

Separating the Issues

NO more unfortunate thing could happen to the move to make congress work than to let it get mixed up in the labor union drive for higher postwar salary rates. There is no connection.

The proposal to raise the salaries of congressmen is part of a movement to reclaim the national legislature. At least it has been accepted as promising to have that effect if successful. The issue is not between $10,000 a year, the present salary and some higher figure as a matter of higher living costs, but between the existing rate and the probability that a higher one would attract a higher type of candidate. It is the hope of those who believe in the higher rate that the least of its consequences would be to cause some of the objections by potential candidates who say they cannot afford a legislative career. The object is not to give members of congress a boost in pay because they want it, but to give the country the possible benefits of a boost in the quality of the members of congress.

Anything that tends to make this seem to be part of the issue of postwar industrial wage rates—a collective bargaining situation with strong inflationary overtones—is misleading and probably malicious. Every member of congress could be given twice what he is getting now with less than a $5,000,000 annual net addition to the cost of running the national government. If the increase brought only one better congressman to Washington, it could be more than paid off with a single good idea.

At Bureaucratic Discretion

WITHOUT either knowing or needing to know the merit of the first private request for knowledge gained through government research in atomic energy, all who fear government monopoly can point to the rejection of the request as justification for their misgivings.

Political authority, having bolstered itself with possession of a momentous secret by spending huge sums of public money, is showing every intention of incorporating the secret as state property. On the excuse that atomic energy is too dangerous to be exploited by anyone except the government, every attempt is being made to establish a complete monopoly, with all future private use to be at bureaucratic discretion.

The first known private request for information has come from a private organization surveying oil reserves. The organization's appeal for data on certain radio-active substances that would be useful—byproducts of atomic bomb manufacture—has been rejected by the War Department. The organization's spokesman contends that availability of the substances for this purpose might add millions of barrels of oil to the national supply.

Perhaps in this particular case there were special reasons for refusal. But the public will not know that. The public will know nothing. Atomic energy is being incorporated as a state secret. A precedent is being set that may blow up the entire American system. It is as if coal and oil, our present prime sources of energy, had been taken over by government on a basis of their military importance and were to be made available hereafter only at political discretion.

Japanese Reds

THERE is nothing necessarily incongruous about Japanese "reds" reported leaving prisons to the acclaim of "communist" throngs in Tokyo, though few Americans ever have thought of a "red" menace in Hirohito's realm. But the "red" menace is universal.

We can hope only that it may prove easier to comprehend in Japan than the Chinese political movement of the same hue, that a Japanese "red" may be easier to classify than an ordinary malcontent itching to overthrow the existing government, with no alternative in mind, except anarchy.

We can hope only that a "communist" movement in Japan, for which the United States has assumed responsibility will be easier to catalog and keep track of than such movements in every other country of the world, including the United States. Elsewhere, "communists" share only one objective—to embarrass and hamstring the existing government. They cannot agree on an alternative they can agree only on desire to destroy what already is. "Communists" may belong to an international political movement, though that is denied by the Russian headquarters of the movement in whose name they act. But there can be no doubt all of them belong to a common order in modern society—the order of rebellion. Before the mystery deepens further, Gen. MacArthur should send one of those Japanese "reds" home to Washington, where it can be compared with typical samples of the homegrown variety. If it's the same species, Gen. MacArthur's troubles have begun.

"Conditions on Venus are about as they were on this planet when the waters first receded." Oh, boy! Imagine—no people!

With here and there a faint dissenting voice, there is a growing body of opinion that MacArthur is as good as he thinks he is.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Truman Meets Trouble in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Mr. Truman is having more trouble with congress than is apparent.

He has a number of members of both houses are stiffening their backs against the labor political pressures believing the nation is in a serious crisis.

The latest effort of Senate Floor Leader Barkley was necessary for instance to get the CIO-PAC man Raymond McKeough confirmed for six years on the Maritime commission. It was dragged out of the senate by a margin of only eight votes after considerable inside discussing. To get it through Barkley had to make it a party matter and even then nine Democrats refused to go along.

The opposition frankly questioned the wisdom of putting a CIO official, but even more than that a man who led the political action part of CIO in three western states into a position of power over the merchant marine whose unions are recognized as probably the most extreme in the country—and all over the objection of AFL.

More Democrats probably have this conviction, than voted it. These were appeased by personal promises McKeough would use his position for CIO-PAC purposes but his actions on the commission will find close congressional scrutiny from now on.

See Error In Action

I suspect more than a majority of Democrats thought it a mistake to place an outside party man able to wield such immense political action power in a six-year job.

Conversely, the developing administration foreign policy is meeting almost unanimous senate approval. After two-and-a-half hours behind the doors with State Secretary Byrnes, the foreign relations committee members, both Republicans and Democrats emerged in a favorable mood.

Mr. Byrnes knows how to handle senators from long experience and he handled them that same by getting them convinced he had told them all there was to know about the London conference. What they heard did not contradict anything the public already knows, but the details which Byrnes gave put convincing emphasis upon the public announcements of the results.

This enabled him to escape the trouble he was in on the Braden appointment. The nomination of the new ambassador to Argentina has been delayed through general secret sessions of the committee. Senators felt Byrnes had made a mistake in not consulting the committee in advance, not realizing the other Latin American nations and that Braden had been too active in earlier Argentine affairs. Some were angry because the Pan American conference set for October 20 had been postponed to November 20. I judge that Latin affairs got out of Byrnes' hands while he was busy preparing for London and at the peace conference.

Even the Byrnes policy on the Far East found favorable support when he told the senators he was behind General MacArthur without reservation.

Tax Bill Supported

The tax bill went almost unanimously through the house when the administration came to terms with the varying viewpoints. It will be amended in the senate, but only in details, unless the Republicans break loose and demand a less modest cut. The other parts of the administration program are still facing opposition.

Considered all in all, it is evident Mr. Truman has lost some ground in congress, but not to any decisive extent yet comparable to the condition into which Mr. Roosevelt worked himself.

His statement when he returned from his week-end vacation urging the country to go to work conveyed an inspiration which caught popular favor, although many are waiting to see how he comes out with the strike question. For instance the oil people got their 15 per cent, and in the settlements it is clear he can yet lose his whole case against inflation.

Some murmuring was heard because he went away for his long planned trip in the middle of the strike crisis, but there is a tendency in congress to judge him by the results he gets.

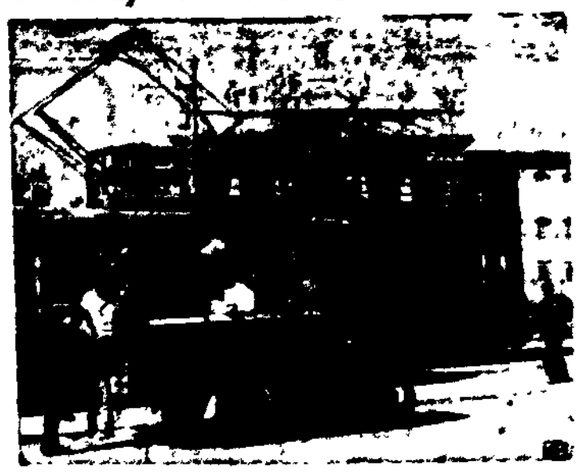
Daily Bible Thought

If you are living a purely animal existence, talk it over in real sincerity with God and tell him you want to be spiritually reborn. You will be amazed at the hidden powers that will unfold. It is as simple as that. Just knock and the door to a spiritual life of power will open. "Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God."—John 3:3.

Twenty on Rome Motorbike



ALL ABOARD. How the 20-passenger motorcycle compares with a modern streetcar and, in the background, a two-decker.

By DWIGHT L. FITKIN
Associated Press Writer

ROME—The most bizarre sight in Rome's busy eye-filling and ear-splitting traffic today is a motorcycle that hauls up to 20 persons.

The Romans call it a motofurgoncino. It's a motorcycle converted into a three-wheel truck with wooden seats in a box for carrying commuters.

There are hundreds of motofurgoncini buzzing up and down the hills of Rome. Commuters pay 10 cents and up depending on the distance, for rides to and from work.

Despite its small size the motofurgoncino makes as much noise as a full grown truck without a muffler.

With passengers squeezed into one perspiring mass there usually are several stowaways holding on for dear life to a small ladder nailed on the back. It's a rough ride at be.

The motofurgoncino came into being after the Germans looted Rome of its motor buses and even took the tire off the electric buses. It has a rival in the camioretta, a passenger car converted into a bus, also an open air job with rough wooden seats.

If the motofurgoncini and the transportation. The streetcar system is operating almost normally, but the streetcars were intended for comfort and strike you as too rugged. Rome has other forms of transportation to supplement the motor and trolley buses and do not spread all over the capital.

Most of the taxis are still under requisition by the Allied commission.

Dobbin Returns

The horse has made a big comeback.

Carrozze with fringe on top have been brought in from the hinterland. A ride costs you $1.50, compared to 15 cents before the war.

Even shoe leather is dear for a Roman. A pair of shoes with real leather costs $50 or more. That's why so many prefer riding 20 on one motorcycle rather than hoofing it.

Dummy Fleet Fooled Germans

By HOWARD BERRY
International News Correspondent

LONDON—A phantom fleet of dummy warships — fitted with wooden guns—was used by the British Navy to fool U-boats and German bombers during the first two years of the war.

The warships were merchant vessels with elaborate superstructures made of plywood and canvas painted to transform them into replicas of R-class battleships and an aircraft carrier.

This old trick—it was used with success in World War I—was just disclosed by the British Admiralty. It drew air attacks away from real warships in Scapa Flow and the Firth of Forth, Scotland, and kept the Nazis guessing on the disposition of British capital ships.

Three 7,900-ton merchant ships belonging to the British shipping firm Shaw, Savill and Albion were used. The S. S. Fakeha and S. S. Waimana became the 33,500-ton battleships Revenge and Resolution. The S. S. Mamari appeared as the 12,000-ton aircraft carrier Hermes.

All vessels were manned by skeleton crews and their holds were filled with thousands of empty barrels to give them greater buoyancy.

By 1941 the ships had served their purpose. The Mamari alias Hermes, had been wrecked off the Wash on the east coast of England. The other two vessels are sailing again as merchant ships.

One Real Battleship

A real battleship, however, took part in the game of bluff. The 23-year-old Centurion, disarmed under the Washington Naval Treaty, carried the hoax into foreign waters.

Converted into an imitation of the new battleship Anson with a dummy after-funnel mainmast main armament, she set out on a 20,000 mile trip around the Cape of Good Hope to Bombay, India, with a crew of sixteen officers and 265 men.

Once, in a monsoon in the Indian Ocean, her dummy "A" turret was swept overboard by a heavy sea and astonished lookouts in the convoy reported a 14-inch gun floating down the fairway.

The Centurion was finally sunk as a blockship off the Normandy coast on D-Day.

Norway Schools Reopened

All Quislings Out of Teaching Corps.

By SAMUEL HALES
United Press Correspondent

OSLO—All over Norway schools have begun in schoolhouses which the Germans had used for barracks for five years and in museums which the Germans had used for munitions storage, if the former contents could be restored.

The Russian language has appeared in college university curricula and German has been relegated to its prewar rank as a secondary foreign tongue.

Schools have reopened under difficulties but they have reopened and one thing of which there is no shortage is textbooks. The Germans were never able to make Norwegians adopt German-edited books, and although the Germans forbade the printing of any more prewar textbooks, Norwegian publishing houses outsmarted them.

For instance, in 1942 they blandly ground out a new supply of books—dated 1939.

Nazis Hold Minister

Minister of Education Kaare Fostervoll, former schoolmaster of Aalesound whom German and Quisling regime kept locked up for 18 months, now presides over Norway's educational program. Fostervoll has reviewed for United Press some of the difficulties encountered in getting liberated schools going, as well as measures invoked to calm students up for the lost years and to clean the schools of collaborationist teachers and students.

Angular, bespectacled Fostervoll says that all school buildings in Finnmark have been burned. Only 90 of between 400 and 500 boarding schools still stand in northern Norway where the youngsters lived in the schools to avoid long cold travel in winter-times to their scattered homes. More than 200 public libraries in Norway have been destroyed. Bergen's 900-year-old museum was destroyed by a munitions explosion.

School houses in all cities and towns have holes in the walls where German bunks were fastened. Maps, instruments, desks and blackboard are gone. Even now Allied soldiers are still billeted in some school houses.

"But we've said that schools were to begin and I can tell you that practically all have started on schedule. All over the country several schools are being run in the same building. Teachers through their war experiences have been trained for that. For instance, in Oslo during the occupation four schools were conducted in the same building with classes running from eight o'clock in the morning until eight in the evening. The teachers learned a lot and liked it.

Add Extra Year

"For five years opportunities have been bad for youngsters who normally have seven years schooling before entering what we call secondary school's corresponding to American high schools. Now we are allowing them an eighth year in lower schools to help them catch up what they have missed."

Fostervoll says that all Quislings have been eliminated from teaching staffs and that about 1,200 teachers who joined the teachers union formed during Quislings regime have been suspended and are being investigated individually.

Advance Report on a Winter Resort

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Your correspondent will be at home to friends in the Number Four stall of the dogpox at the Miami track this winter. It's the best accommodation he could get. He was lucky to get it.

Don't bet the Four Dog. We will be in a little too under a clause in our lease. It will be somewhat cramped and at the best you can't tell whether the dog will break or whether we will.

The family will not be with us. The best we could do was to get it accommodations in the storage compartment of a taxicab. (We are going to put in a small coke box and gas stove. No heat. $3,500 a season the way things will be this winter down here.)

The only other prospect was a rental under the seat of a Mexican watering cart. We passed it up because the owner would furnish only a small mattress, a sawed-off floorlamp and no knife and fork.

All of which hints that this would be a very different and most overcrowded season in history. It will seem understatements. There are more people here now than in some mid-winters and the housing and apartment shortage is beyond belief. This is the first season when the hotels are looking ahead and fearing the customers.

Aladdin is rubbing his wonderful lamp. A year around schedule in Bagdon the Great. If you saw the situation depicted in the movies you would say it couldn't happen in real life.

Soldiers galore, pretty girls galore, racketeers, home seekers, promoters and speculators galore give the setting the mood of a super-production worked out jointly by Earl Carroll, Ike Eisenhower, the Chamber of Commerce and whoever writes Duffy's Tavern.

Every day sees another super-doober real estate deal in a new Florida wonderland. J. Myer Schine, somewhere in the picture, who Schine started out with a little movie theater in the country town of Gloversville, N. Y., many years ago. He now owns the fabulous Roney Plaza, a few other Miami area hotels and the Boca Raton Country club. Here where the sun comes on a non-stop basis Mr. Schine thinks on a similar schedule.

New developments on every inch of waterfront land between the beach and Hollywood and beyond are blueprinted. A Florida boom now will make 1926 seem like an exercise in personal finance looms. The winter in the Zone of Wonderful Nonsense and the Area Out of Aesop will be up your alley only if you have your home, apartment or hotel all sewed up ahead.

We still think Aladdin, its patron saint, used two wonderful lamps and that he has added a third and put on some assistant lamp rubbers.

Come down and see us. (Note: Since writing the above the author wired the office that he is returning and will have no Miami Beach address this winter. A family of six showed up with a prior lease on the Number Four stall at the dogpox.)

The overshoes and galoshes are all together in a box in the basement. At least that was the plan last spring.

All the overshoes and galoshes that were reasonably intact were to be stored in a dry, cool place until needed in the fall.

When fall came, they were to be taken out of their hiding place, examined and allocated to various wearers.

The smallest wearer would inherit the overshoes and galoshes of the next largest member and so on, up to the head man, who would get new ones and thereby make everything come out even.

The pairs which nobody needed would be swapped with other families for other needed articles, such as stocking caps and snow suits.

In some cases, the surplus would be bestowed on deserving acquaintances who might be willing to give away other items of wearing apparel in the near future.

There was even the possibility it might be possible to pick up a pair of gym shoes in reasonable state of repair, gym shoes being next to bacon, the scarcest of all household commodities at the time.

That was the plan last spring. So what happens?

The overshoes and galoshes are not together but scattered 39 ways for Sunday because during the summer someone wanted some string, out of the box, emptied its contents on the floor and they drifted into all corners of the basement.

The contents are battered and worn, instead of being reasonably sound, as they seemed to be last spring. They bear no resemblance to a stock.

If they could be traded, moreover, it would have to be with one-legged customers to get out of the whole batch of rights and lefts there is only one authentic pair.

It is the pair the head man was interested to pass down the line so he could have a new pair. Closer examination reveals they are too small for the next wearer down the line, however, in conformance with the rule that all children born since 1900 grow up with bigger feet than their fathers and therefore must pass their footgear down to him, instead of vice versa.

Out of a welter of mismatched overshoes and galoshes it turns out that not one of them can be put to any good use inside the family, or traded to anyone outside the family, or salvaged in any way whatsoever.

Which means that everybody but the head man is going to have to be fitted out with new winter footwear. There must be zillions of pairs of overshoes and galoshes in the country by this time—if they ever could be organized.

PORT GIVEN MACARTHUR

Demobilization Complete, He Says, in Answering Critics of Policy.

By the Associated Press

Oct 16 — (Tuesday) Arthur triumphantly ast night the de- of Japan's once and navy had been ed "magnificent conduct" of American troops and spoke strongly for a unified American command

The supreme Allied commander, in a speech prepared for world-wide broadcast, added that defeated and devastated Japan would need much time and great patience from the entire world to "restore the dignity and freedom of the common man" in the island empire

Says Japs Stunned

MacArthur said that for the first time American soldiers of the occupation forces had given the Japanese people an insight into a free man's way of life in actual action and it stunned them into new thoughts and new ideas." He declared

"Revolution, or more properly speaking the evolution which will restore the dignity and freedom of the common man has begun It will take much time and require great patience, but if world public opinion will permit of these two essential factors, mankind will be repaid

"Herein lies the way to true and final peace'

Answer To Critics

MacArthur's broadcast was described at headquarters as a discussion of the military phases of the occupation It also was interpreted here as an answer to critics who have charged the supreme commander has been too soft in handling the Japanese MacArthur said

"Today, Japanese armed forces throughout Japan completed their demobilization and ceased to exist as such. These forces now are completely abolished.

'I know of no demobilization in history, either in war or peace, by our own or by any other country, that has been accomplished so rapidly or so frictionlessly"

More than 7 000 000 Japanese in the home islands and outlying areas have laid down their arms, MacArthur said, adding

"Nothing could exceed the abjectness, humiliation and finality of this surrender It is not only physically thorough but it has been equally destructive of Japanese spirit

'From swagger and arrogance the former Japanese military have passed to servility and fear They are thoroughly beaten and cowed, and tremble before the terrible retribution of the surrender terms imposed upon their country in punishment for its great sins"

Tribute To Troops

The general said in tribute to American troops

"With a few exceptions they could well be taken as a model for all time as a conquering army.

'No historian in later years when passions have cooled can arraign their conduct"

In contrast to 'some concepts that have been advanced," the Japanese army was thoroughly defeated before its surrender, MacArthur said He declared

'The victory was a triumph for the concept of complete integration of three dimensions of war —ground, sea and air By thorough use of each arm in conjunction with corresponding utilization of the other two, the enemy was reduced to a condition of helplessness

"By largely avoiding methods involving separate use of the services, and by avoiding methods of frontal assault as far as possible our combined power forced the collapse with relative light loss, probably unparalleled by any campaigns in history."

Most of the $3,277,950 these Bonds represent will go for jobs—wages for you, perhaps your son or your neighbor. Everybody will profit, because Marion will get more and better schools, swimming pools, a city-owned municipal building, a modern sewer system, and a new and adequate airport.

Army, Navy, Irish, Ohio State Rated Top Teams in Grid Poll

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 — The same five teams that dominated last week's Associated Press poll to determine the best college elevens in the country hold sway in the tabulations compiled today with Army retaining first place in the Big Ten.

The Cadets garnered 90 nominations for the top spot on the 105 ballots, allowing only 14 for Navy and one for Ohio State.

Army, with 1025 points, was followed by Navy, Notre Dame, Ohio State and Minnesota in that order, duplicating their rankings of last week. Ten points are given for each first place vote, nine for second, etc. All critics who did not place the West Pointers first on their ticket ranged the Cadets second.

Alabama Moves Up

Alabama moved up from seventh to six place and Pennsylvania, 49 to 0 victor over North Carolina, hopped from 13th place a week ago to seventh while Indiana and Texas, eighth and 10th respectively, in the first compilation, kept those places in the present counting.

Purdue, whose Boilermakers crushed Iowa, 40 to 0, shot from the 15th slot of seven days ago, to ninth this week.

Michigan, ninth in the previous listing, skidded to 13th, following its defeat by Army, while Southern California, lone West Coast power a week ago, spun from sixth to 14th in the 33 to 6 defeat by the San Diego Naval outfit.

Ohio State and Purdue appear to have the toughest battle to retain their rankings this week-end as the two meet in Columbus with the loser almost certain to become a hazard in the Big Ten title race. Army shouldn't have too much trouble in keeping its prestige, playing the Melville, R. I., Torpedo Boat aggregation at West Point.

Navy meets Georgia Tech in an all-night contest at Baltimore.

The leading teams, ranged on a basis of 10 points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc. (First place votes in parentheses):

Army (90)	1,025
Navy (14)	902
Notre Dame	768
Ohio State (1)	655
Minnesota	581
Alabama	511
Pennsylvania	310
Indiana	292
Purdue	184
Texas	117

Second ten: 11—St. Mary's 114; 12—Georgia 112; 13—Michigan 94; 14—Southern California 45; 15—Oklahoma A & M 42; 16—Duke 40; 17—Columbia 27; 18—Tulsa 24; 19—Holy Cross 22; 20—Mississippi State 18.

Widdoes Works On Buckeyes' Offense

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16—Coach Carroll Widdoes worked to sharpen up Ohio State university's offense today as the gridders readied themselves for the battle with unbeaten Purdue here Saturday.

At stake will be both teams' unblemished records and leadership of the Big Ten.

Assistant Coach Paul Bixler reported that the Boilermaker line—tackle to tackle—would be the biggest to be faced this year, probably averaging 213 pounds per man.

Ohio's tackles Russ Thomas, Thornton Dixon and Max Schnittker all are reported in top shape. They were used conservatively in last week's game against Wisconsin because of minor injuries.

Bixler described Purdue's offense as wide-open: "They'll throw passes from anywhere and at any time." Widdoes was in agreement that "Purdue will give us plenty of football Saturday."

LYKENS KEEPS TITLE

BUCYRUS, Oct. 16 — Lykens Rural High school retained its baseball crown for the second consecutive year today after defeating runners up in the annual baseball tournament in the finals at Aumiller park Saturday. Lykens defeated Chatfield 14-0 in the semi-final game, and then trounced Holmes-Liberty 4-0 in the finals. The winning pitcher was R. Hieber who held his opponents to five hits.

OHIO STATE LEADS PURDUE IN FIGURES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 16—On the surface, Purdue and Ohio State, who meet in the top game of this week's Western Conference schedule, appear just about equal.

They've met the same foes, Iowa and Wisconsin, and won by almost identical scores.

However, official league statistics show a few things not easily discernible to the fan on the 50-yard line. The figures show the Buckeyes and Boilermakers are superior to other teams in almost every department—and that Ohio State is superior to Purdue in all except punting and passing.

The Buckeyes were ranked first, both ofiensively and defensively on a basis of average yardage per game. Purdue was ranked third offensively and second defensively. Ohio State leads the circuit in total gains with an average of 379 yards, to 281 for the Boilermakers. Michigan has 303 in that department. On passes, the Buckeyes have averaged 125 yards; Purdue 58.

On the defensive side, Purdue has allowed opponents to average 210 yards per game, to 154 by Ohio State.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—War Dept.: Maybe Michigan's Fritz Crisler thought it was only polite to answer a question, but he probably let himself in for a pack of trouble when he told New York football writers yesterday that Army's Glenn Davis, and Doc Blanchard are a better pair of backs than Ohio State's Paul Sarringhaus and Dick Fisher... From now on, the Buckeyes will be out to make Fritz eat those words—and Sarringhaus' name alone would make quite a mouthful... OHIO GAME ENDS AS FANS THREATEN TO TAKE OVER GRIDIRON

Irate Customers at Philo Cause Short Contest; State Picture Reviewed.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16.—Reversing the basketball and baseball procedure of having overtime periods or extra innings, Ohio high school football teams went in for bob-tailed affairs last week.

Two games were cut short—because a team was hopelessly beaten and the other because of a threatened disturbance among the fans.

The latter incident was a Philo where Bremen officials withdrew their team near the end of the third period with the score 19 to 6 against them. Harold W. Emswiler, commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, said he was told by officials of both schools that spectators were threatening to move out on to the field.

Get Money Instead

Emswiler said Bremen officials agreed to abide by OHSAA rules and return their game financial guarantee to Philo.

Reports from Philo said the fans and Bremen players became angered when Red Ewing called a 15-yard penalty for unnecessary roughness and then added two more 15-yard setbacks for ungentlemanly conduct.

The other game cut short was at Steubenville where Steubenville Central had a field day against Magnolia. Even with eight minutes playing time cut from the last half, the count was 81 to 0.

Seven more teams were knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten and untied but there still are more than a score with perfect records.

Tougher This Week

The competition should be a little rugged this week, however.

For instance Cincinnati Purcell and Cincinnati Elder are paired against each other. Both are unbeaten and untied and this is the third straight year they have come up to their annual game with perfect records.

Wapakoneta and Van Wert will clash in another tilt involving undefeated and untied teams and there will be the annual battle between Mansfield and Massillon. Mansfield has been beaten and Massillon has been tied twice but their tilt always is one of the state's gridiron classics.

Cleveland Cathedral Latin, unbeaten since the 1943 season, faces one of its toughest assignments against Cleveland Holy Name Sunday. It was Holy Name that gave Cleveland West its first defeat of the season last week.

The other teams which were beaten or tied last week for the first time were Cincinnati Walnut Hills and Withrow, Columbus Upper Arlington, Wellington, Wadsworth and Leetonia.

Riding along with Cleveland Cathedral Latin and Cincinnati Purcell and Elder in the unbeaten class are such major teams as Martins Ferry, Youngstown Ursuline, Newark, Dayton Chaminade and Toledo Waite.

Upper Sandusky kept its perfect record intact by drubbing Bellevue, 53 to 6 and the Rams now have scored 234 points in five games.

Mansfield, Warren and Massillon were among the highly rated teams which scored impressive victories although they have blemishes on their records. Canton McKinley had to rally, however, for a touchdown in the last minute and a half to gain a tie with Canton Lincoln.

Pending a further check, these teams still are undefeated and untied:

Cincinnati Purcell, Cleveland Cathedral Latin, Cincinnati Elder, Reading, Martins Ferry, Newark, Granville, Wapakoneta, Upper Sandusky, Copely, Piqua, Troy, Youngstown Ursuline, Lowellville, Elida, Van Wert, Dayton Chaminade, Tallmadge, Northfield Toledo Waite, Ottawa Hills and Genoa.

Upper Sandusky Leads Race

Unbeaten Rams Pace Northern Ohio Loop, Play Tiffin Next; Galion Tied for Third Place.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 16—The league leading Upper Sandusky Rams will meet a non-league opponent, Tiffin Calvert, here, this week, while Norwalk, in second place with only a tie marring their record, and the three teams tied for third place, Bellevue, Shelby and Galion, battle for position in the Northern Ohio league race.

The Rams returning to league play next week will meet Galion, there, Oct. 25, and Shelby, here, November 2, before the traditional end-of-season game with Carey, November 9, for the "Wyandot County Championship."

Coach Earl Shaffer still retains a cautious outlook concerning the coming games but will admit the boys have done well so far winning five games with a total of 234 points to 28 rung up by their opponents, and have amassed a total of 1,761 yards gained to 622 for combined foes.

The coach adds that this record is due to the fact the team is a team, without outstanding stars and also without weak spots, and to the replacements who can and do fill in for first string men and hold down positions very nearly as well.

The defensive record of the Rams is largely due to the strength of tackles Bill Boles and Tom Thierl, guards Dean McAllister and Earl Thomas, and linebackers Don Sweigard, center and Eugene Fullback. The ends Jack Hou and Boo Schneiker have many gains on passes from W and Smalley, while halfback sick and Kent contribu speedy end runs.

JOIN THE CORDUROY REPEATERS' CLUB

All that is said of modern scientific research, especially treated cords, the use of rayon instead of cotton, and many other things, might also be said of the construction and materials used in CORDUROY tires.

Those statements may influence the first time purchaser, but it's the actual proven service delivered that determines the repeat purchase. And that has always been CORDUROY'S goal, — "to build tires so rugged, so long-lived that the user will voluntarily repeat without the slightest doubt that he is getting the best tire value available."

By far the bulk of CORDUROY'S business comes from Repeat Purchasers — the folks who KNOW that CORDUROYS give exceptionally long mileage and service. The next time you need tires buy Factory Fresh Extra Quality CORDUROYS. Then you too, (we'll wager), will join the CORDUROY Repeaters' Club.
